ABOUT THE SEMINAR:

Quantitative research is expressed in numbers and graphs. It is used to test or confirm theories and assumptions. This type of research can be used to establish generalizable facts about a topic. Common quantitative methods include experiments, observations recorded as numbers, and surveys with closed-ended questions. Quantitative research is at risk for research biases including information bias, omitted variable bias, sampling bias, or selection bias.

Qualitative research is expressed in words. It is used to understand concepts, thoughts or experiences. This type of research enables you to gather in-depth insights on topics that are not well understood.

Common qualitative methods include interviews with open-ended questions, observations described in words, and literature reviews that explore concepts and theories. Qualitative research is also at risk for certain research biases including the Hawthorne effect, observer bias, recall bias, and social desirability bias.

The main purpose of this seminar was to give brief about qualitative & quantitative research methods.

TOPICS TO BE COVERED:

- The differences between quantitative and qualitative research
- Data collection methods

ABOUT SEMINAR:

A grant is an award, usually financial, given by one entity (typically a company, foundation, or government) to an individual or a company to facilitate a goal or incentivize performance. Grants are essentially gifts that do not have to be paid back, under most conditions. These can include education loans, research money, and stock options. Some grants have waiting periods—called lock-up or vesting periods—before the grantee can take full ownership of the financial reward. Research funding is defined as a grant obtained for conducting scientific research generally through a competitive process. To apply for grants and securing research funding is an essential part of conducting research.

Many good ideas do not materialize into a good research project because of lack of funding. This seminar mainly focused on how to get the funding for research work and how to plan and write grant proposal for research.

TOPICS TO BE COVERED:

- Why Do We Need the Funds for Research?
- Basic Requirements for Research Funding
- What Are the Sources of Research Funding? – Details of Funding Agencies
- Application for the Research Grant
- Budgeting for the Research Grant
- Completion of a Research Project
